

CANNING FACTORY DESTROYED BY FIRE

Both Buildings at the Rockford Plant Burned to Ground, Entailing Loss of About $20,000.

18,000 CANS OF PUMPKIN LOST

200,000 Empty Cans Purchased for Next Season's Pack Also Consumed—Origin of Fire Unknown.

FACTS ABOUT THE FIRE. Total loss to Seymour Canning Company estimated at about $20,000. $10,000 insurance on buildings and machinery, $3,000 on contents. 200,000 empty cans, 18,000 cans of pumpkin, and labels valued at $700 consumed. Growers ask that factory be rebuilt. Origin of fire is not known.

The Seymour Canning Company suffered heavy fire damage Thursday night when its factory at Rockford was totally destroyed, entailing a loss of from $19,000 to $20,000 on buildings, machinery and stock on hand. Members of the company, Postmaster Allen Swope and Sol Davis, of this city, and William Isaacs, of Cortland, today said insurance to the amount of $10,000 was carried on the buildings and machinery and that the contents were fully insured. The company was deciding today whether or not the plant would be rebuilt. It was stated that the growers in the vicinity were asking that it be rebuilt.

The origin of the flames is unknown. They may have started from a spark from a passing train or it is possible that the fire might have been the result of a cigar or cigarette stub carelessly thrown down by a tramp who was spending the night there. Both buildings were two stories in height and were covered with metal roofs as a protection against sparks from the passing trains. The fire was discovered about 10:30 o'clock and the building burned until after midnight. Although the plant was within a few rods of White River there were no means of fighting the flames.

The factory consisted of two buildings, each two stories, and was erected in the spring and summer of 1906. The company says that the original cost of the building and machinery was about $16,000 but since that time a number of improvements have been added. The cost of the improvements had not been totaled, as they were paid out of the expense account and no separate record of them was available. Last September insurance for $11,000 on buildings and machinery expired and $1,000 policy was cancelled when the renewals were made.

Besides the loss on the building and machinery the contents were valued at about $3,000. 653 cases of canned pumpkin or about 18,000 cans, all of last year's pack, were lost. The company was holding the pumpkin for an advanced price. This was fully insured, it is stated. 200,000 empty cans which had been purchased for the coming season's run were burned. Labels, the value of which is estimated at $700, were also lost. The tomato pack had been previously sold.

So far as known no one was around the building Thursday. The plant has not been in operation since last November and no packing has been done for several weeks. The fire evidently had made good headway when discovered by persons living at Rockford and soon the two buildings were enveloped in flames. The reflection of the fire could be plainly seen in this city and many persons thinking that it was in Woodstock started in that direction but some of them returned when they were informed that the blaze was at Rockford. The local fire department is unable to answer calls of that distance and could have done little if the engine had been taken to Rockford as a long line of hose would have been required to reach the closest water supply. The water main, it is said, runs within two hundred yards of the plant but no fire plug has ever been connected there. Postmaster Swope and other members of the company were besieged with inquiries today from growers who wanted to know if the plant would be rebuilt. They are anxious that the business be continued at Rockford and promised the company a good acreage if the factory was erected again. The company was unable to say at this time whether or not the business will be continued. Attention was first devoted to securing figures as to the total investment, the amount of insurance on the building, machinery and contents and other business affairs. The insurance adjusters were expected to arrive today or tomorrow to view the ruins so that an immediate adjustment on the policies can be made.

Postmaster Swope said that as nearly as he could figure out the loss above the insurance will be about $7,000. The company has done a splendid business at the Rockford plant and the growers there would like to see the factory rebuilt.

ADOPTS UNIQUE PLAN TO INTERFERE WITH WORKMEN Mrs. John V. Dehler Steps into Trench to Prevent Tapping of Drainage Tile—Warrant Issued.

In an effort to prevent workmen from tapping into a drainage tile which she insists belongs to her property, Mrs. John V. Dehler this afternoon stationed herself in a trench in front of her property on North Chestnut street, and refused to leave until an affidavit charging assault and battery was served on her. The prosecuting witness is named Bayles and is one of the workmen. Albert Sweet has the contract for putting in the new sewer from the property of Thomas H. Hopewell, adjoining the Dehler property.

It is said that Mr. Hopewell insists that he paid part of the expense of laying the tile when the Dehler property was owned by the Rev. Harley Jackson. Mr. and Mrs. Dehler purchased their home from Jackson. Mr. Dehler says that when he bought the house he was told that the tile belonged to his property. When Mr. and Mrs. Dehler learned that Mr. Hopewell was to tap the drain along the curb line, Judge Swails, who is holding court in Bedford, was asked over long distance telephone to issue a temporary restraining order. Mr. Dehler says that the order was prepared, the bond given and other arrangements made but it had not been signed.

By stepping into the trench where the work was proceeding Mrs. Dehler expected to delay the work. Mr. Dehler said that probably a mandamus proceeding would be asked in an effort to compel Mr. Hopewell to remove the tile.

VACANCY ON MEDORA RURAL ROUTE WILL BE FILLED Civil Service Examination to be Held in This City on Saturday, March 11.

The local postoffice this afternoon received notice from the postoffice department at Washington that a civil service examination to fill a vacancy in the rural route out of Medora, will be held in this city, March 11. The notice was posted in the postoffice lobby today. The vacancy is caused by the resignation of C. J. Reynolds, it is stated. It is known that a number of applicants will take the examination.

CONVENTION CALL ISSUED BY HAYS

Republican State Chairman Fixes Date as April 6—This County will Have Seven Delegates.

MEETING AT INDIANAPOLIS

Delegates from Fourth District will Meet at Room 41 State House on April 5.

Jackson county will have seven delegates to the Republican state convention, according to the apportionment which is made a part of the call issued today by Republican State Chairman Will H. Hays and L. W. Henley, secretary. The apportionment is made on the basis of one delegate for each 200 votes and majority fraction of 200 cast at the last general election. There were 1,477 Republican votes cast at that time. The Fourth district will have 85 delegates in the convention. There were 16,958 Republican votes in the district. The state convention will have 1,168 delegates.

The call states that the state convention will be held at Tomlinson Hall April 6. On the day before the state meeting the various district meetings will be held in Indianapolis. Delegates from this district will meet in room 41 of the state house. Judge John M. Lewis, of this city, is district chairman and will preside at the meeting.

Chairman Hays' call is addressed to "All Republicans of Indiana, and all who desire to affiliate with them." At the district meetings the delegates will select members for each of the following committees.

One member of the convention committee on resolutions; one member of the convention committee on rules and permanent organization; one member of the convention committee on credentials; one assistant secretary of the state convention; one vice-president of the state convention; one presidential elector and one contingent presidential elector; two delegates to the Republican national convention, and two alternate delegates to the Republican national convention.

The convention committee on rules and permanent organization will meet in Room 1121, Hotel Severin, at 9 p. m., Wednesday, April 5. The convention credentials committee will meet in Room 1021, Hotel Severin, at 9 p. m., Wednesday, April 5. The convention committee on resolutions will meet in Room 1224, Hotel Severin, at 9 p. m., Wednesday, April 5.

The state convention will assemble in Tomlinson hall at 10 a. m., Thursday, April 6, to adopt a platform, select delegates at large, alternate delegates at large, presidential electors at large and nominate state candidates.

TEACHERS' ASSOCIATION WILL MEET SATURDAY Dr. William E. Jenkins, of State University, Will Give Fifth of Series of Lectures.

The February meeting of the city teachers' association will be held at the Shields high school building Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Dr. William E. Jenkins, of Indiana University, who has been giving a series of lectures, will give an address on "Maetterlink." This is the fifth lecture of the series.

The public is invited to this meeting. The series of lectures has been very interesting and of great value to the teachers. Dr. Jenkins was asked to speak here following the organization of the local association the first of the present school year.

HOUSE WILL CARRY OUT ITS PROGRAM

Resignation of Secretary of War Garrison Will Have no Effect on Congress, Says Hay.

ARMY REORGANIZATION PLAN

General Wood, Former Chief of Staff, Says Continental Plan was "A Sham."

By United Press. Washington, February 11.—"Secretary of War Garrison's resignation will have no effect on Congress," This was the curt declaration today of Representative James Hay of Virginia, chairman of the house military affairs committee, the storm center of the controversy which caused Garrison's summary withdrawal from the Wilson cabinet.

Hay did not discuss personal disputes and reported feuds affecting himself and Garrison but he declared the house military committee is going ahead with its own program of army reorganization.

"Congress is the legislative branch of the government," said Hay. "It gives due consideration to any suggestions or proposals from the executive branch but by the constitution Congress is reserved the right to finally decide the legislative questions."

When Hay was asked to comment on Garrison's statement in his letters to President Wilson that the federalization of the militia and the discard of the continental scheme was "a sham, a mockery" for national defense Hay retorted:

"General Wood, formerly chief of staff, said the continental army was a sham."

Hay plainly intimated that the continental army scheme is definitely and finally on the shelf.

"We will conclude our hearings on the army and militia reorganization bill today," said Hay. "We hope to have the bill out within ten days or two weeks. Secretary Garrison's resignation will not affect the judgment of the committee."

The president this afternoon issued a formal order designating Mayor General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff, to act as secretary of war "for a period not to exceed thirty days or until a successor shall have been appointed and qualified."

A new secretary of war will be named within the next twenty-four hours to take up the difficult task of reconciling the preparedness views of himself, the president and congress. It was made known at the white house that a successor to Lindley M. Garrison, whose sudden resignation startled the nation, would be appointed immediately.

Guesses among names already prominently mentioned were declared wild, but it was stated that the successor to Garrison would be a man of nationally recognized fitness. In the meantime congress will go through with its defense program.

Lindley Miller Garrison was born Nov. 28, 1864, at Camden, N. J., in which city his father, the Rev. Joseph Fithian Garrison, was for many years rector of the leading Episcopal church. His mother was Elizabeth (Gran) Garrison.

His early education was obtained in the public schools of Camden and his studies were continued for two years in the Protestant Episcopal Academy in Philadelphia; in Phillips Exeter Academy at Exeter, N. H., for one year, and, for a like period, in Harvard University, where he took a special course.

With the view of preparing himself for a legal career, Mr. Garrison, in 1883, entered the service of the law firm of Redding, Jones & Carson, in Philadelphia. While still with the firm he became a student in the law department of the University of Philadelphia and, being graduated with a degree of LL. B., in 1886, was admitted to the Philadelphia bar the same year. His association with Redding, Jones & Carson was continued until 1888.

In the last named year he was admitted to the New Jersey bar and, removing to Camden, began practice alone, and through the succeeding ten years maintained his law offices in that city. On Jan. 1, 1899, he removed to Jersey City and formed the legal firm of Garrison, McManus & Enright, a partnership which lasted until June 15, 1904, when Mr. Garrison withdrew from the firm to accept the post of vice chancellor of New Jersey. Upon the expiration of his seven-year term he was reappointed to serve until 1918. He resigned March 5, 1913, to assume the duties of secretary of war in President Wilson's Cabinet.

Mr. Garrison is gifted with an active and penetrating mind, possesses a large amount of tact and a pleasing address; is quick to grasp details and has an unlimited capacity for work.

BRECKINRIDGE EXPLAINS REASON FOR RESIGNING Declares that State Militia Cannot be Depended Upon as Foundation of National Defense.

By United Press. Washington, February 11.—In a statement prepared for the United Press today Henry C. Breckinridge, who resigned as assistant secretary of war, outlined his views on army plans now before congress which caused his retirement with Secretary Garrison.

"It is inadvisable to build a military policy for the nation upon the state militia for to rest the defense of the nation upon forty-eight little armies over which the national government has not and cannot obtain control is to tamper with the country's safety," he said.

"False claims are made that the militia can be made a federal force. The constitution gives the state full authority over the militia. The state authorities can without reference to the wants or needs of the nation disband or keep 1,000 or 100,000 militiamen as they desire.

"It is impossible for the federal government by passing a militia pay bill to bribe away from the state a jurisdiction given by the constitution. An effort to confuse the public's mind to make it believe that the militia can be made a federal force is a preposterous effort willfully to fool the American people."

FLURRY IN THE HOUSE OVER GARRISON'S RESIGNATION

Republican Leader Mann Twists Democratic Colleagues—Publication of Letters.

By United Press. Washington, February 11.—A small flurry occurred today in the house over Secretary Garrison's resignation in which the Republicans twitted the Democrats.

"I never object to anything that shows the condition that constantly exists in the Democratic party," said Republican Leader Mann, waving his hand and smiling at the Democrats across the aisle.

Mann was asked if he objected to insertion in the congressional record the letters exchanged between Garrison and the president. Humphrey asked that they be printed, and Barnhart, Democrat, Indiana, had objected.

Introducing a peace resolution, Barnhart praised President Wilson for accepting the resignation of Secretary Garrison and Breckinridge.

GARRISON SAYS HE HAS RETIRED FROM POLITICS Declares that He Would Not Accept New Jersey Governorship if Given to Him.

By United Press. New York, February 11.—Making his first announcement as to future plans since resigning as secretary of war, Lindley M. Garrison today declared he had retired from politics and that he could not conceive himself taking the stump against President Wilson.

"Get it out of your head there is anything political in my action," he said. "I am not a candidate for the governorship of New Jersey and would not accept the governorship if I were handed a certificate of election. I cannot conceive myself taking the stump against the president," he said in answer to a question.

UNITED STATES TO SEND OUT WARNING

Government Will Caution Citizens Against Traveling on Belligerent Ships Carrying Arms.

TEUTONIC POLICY OF SEAS

Germany Holds She has Right to Attack all Armed Merchantmen Without Warning.

By United Press. Washington, February 11.—The United States, it was stated on the highest official authority today, cannot protest the announced sea policy of the Teutonic powers to sink armed merchantmen without warning.

That this government, believing the Teutonic nations to be within their rights in this respect shortly will issue a warning to all its nationals not to travel on belligerent ships that carry guns of any kind, seemed certain.

This position must be taken, many officials declared to-day if America's attitude is to continue to be logically followed out.

The American attitude regarding arming of merchantmen, it became known for the first time to-day, was clearly set forth in the informal suggestion it recently made to the Entente Allies "concerning the absence of munition carrying ships in earlier times was the excuse for the arming of merchantmen." These reasons were plans of pirates on the high seas.

GERMANS STILL HOLDING ALL POSITIONS ALONG SOMME

Berlin War Office Says French by Counter Attacks Have Failed to Recapture Any Trenches.

By United Press. London, February 11.—Violent French counter attacks northwest of Vimy and south of the Somme have failed to recapture any more of the positions taken by the Germans, the Berlin war office announced this afternoon.

The official statement issued at Paris claimed no further gains in last night's heavy fighting reporting merely no important changes on the western front.

"Northwest of Vimy the French after several hours of artillery preparation tried four times to take back their lost trenches," said the German war office. "All these attacks failed. Also south of the Somme the French were unable to take back any part of the lost positions."

ECONOMIC PREPAREDNESS SHOULD PRECEDE MILITARY

Need of Industrial Training in Our Public Schools Urged by Missouri Writer.

Jefferson City, Mo., February 11.—That industrial efficiency is a prerequisite to military preparedness is the opinion of Thomas Speed Mosby, author and publicist, of this city. "Industrial rather than military training is the thing most needed in our public schools," he says. "Ten years ago the U. S. Manufacturers' Association discovered that a majority of the superintendents employed in American factories were educated in the trade schools of Germany, and the world now knows that back of Germany's wonderful military preparedness was a condition of industrial efficiency little short of marvelous."

In his recent work on "Causes and Cures of Crime" Mr. Mosby declares: "One hour a day, in every school room in the land, would give to every man, woman and child of the next generation at least the rudiments of an honest, useful and profitable occupation, would give to all who wanted it a trade, and would make of the next generation of Americans the most productive and industrially the most efficient race the world has ever seen. Surely, an hour a day would not be too much to ask for this great purpose, yet it would be sufficient; and the venerable 'three R's' of our educational system could well afford so small a sacrifice in so great a cause.

"Every great nation that has ever lived and died, has died because it did not know how to make a living. Egypt carved her splendid monuments with an artist's hand, and the colossal grandeur of her architecture has never since been matched; but although she could shape the obelisks and read her glory in El Karnak's lofty hall, she could not make a plow; and in the shadow of the Pyramids and among the tombs of the Pharaohs her degenerate sons are still turning the world's most fertile soil with a crooked stick. Greece filled the world with her syllogisms and her songs; she breathed upon the rough block of stone, and forthwith it sprang into chiselled symphonies of unapproachable grace and beauty; but, though counterfeiting life, she knew not how to live, and

'storied urn or animated bust' record at once her glory and her doom. The eloquence that 'fulminated over Greece to Macedon and Artaxerxes' throne' could move brave hearts to deeds of honor and renown, but it could not call up the forces of Nature to do the will of man. Xerxes the Great cast fetters into the sea in token of his conquest of the deep, but in the straits of Salamis the waves mocked at his pride, and for twenty centuries the jackals have howled and the owls and bats have hovered among the broken monuments of his wasted power. Rome could conquer nations, but she could not feed them; and, gorged with riches, she starved to death in the Edens of ancient civilization.

"If we of the modern era may claim any really effective superiority over the civilizations of the earlier day, it is the superiority of industrial efficiency. In proportion as we have learned to work, learned to do more work and better work, just in that proportion have we advanced in our civilization, laid deep the sure foundations of personal happiness and social security, and paved the way for a larger and a better growth."

REGULATE WOMAN'S DRESS

Legislator Declares Present Modes Are Corrupting Young Men.

Richmond, Va., Feb. 10.—Declaring that short skirts and low cut waists have more to do with the downfall of young men than anything else, Delegate William M. Myers of Richmond, offered an amendment to the Browning anti-red light bill, which provided limitations in women dresses as follows: That no female shall appear in public with a skirt which does not reach within four inches of the ground with a waist or bodice which exposes more than three inches of the chest or back, and that no transparent skirt shall be worn.

Discussion of the Browning anti-red light bill which is patterned after the Iowa law and which provides the closing for one year of any building erected, maintained, used, leased or occupied for immoral purposes was the cause of the outburst against the fashions of today.

LAW AIMED AT HIGH SKIRTS

Toledo Alderman Says They Are Bad For the Morals.

Toledo, O., Feb. 11.—Councilman Stanley Kryznsniak has prepared an ordinance to be introduced next Monday, providing for a fine and imprisonment for women wearing on the street, outer skirts higher than three inches above the ankle. Kryznsniak originally drafted the bill to read "one inch above shoe tops," but changed it when he noted the height of present day shoe tops.

"High skirts are bad for the morals," says Kryznsniak. Women who have heard of the ordinance have set up clamorous opposition to it.

Great Business Losses Due to Neglect

W. WITHERS MILLER

President of the Polk-Miller Drug Company, Richmond, Va., is authority for the following extraordinary statement:

"I estimate that the business men of this country could increase their efficiency fully ten per cent by taking an occasional laxative and not neglecting the bowels as most of them do."

He also said that if the Department of Commerce in Washington would present each business man in the country with a box of Rexall Orderlies, it would be of great benefit to the national welfare. Rexall Orderlies are prompt in action, pleasant to take and never gripe, can be used by men, women or children, and are just the thing for toning up sluggish livers.

POLITICAL TURMOIL

The Civil War was fought and re-fought in Indiana politics for more than a decade after Appomattox, with varying results. In 1868 the Republicans again won the election, with the result that Senator Hendricks was succeeded by D. D. Pratt. In 1870 the Democrats won the state by some twenty-five hundred votes. With Hendricks up for Governor and Morton for re-election to the senate, the campaign of 1872 was bitter. Strange to say both were elected. Hendricks carried Indiana in October by about twelve hundred votes, and the Republicans elected the legislature, which gave Morton a second term in the Senate. In the next month, Indiana gave its electoral votes to Grant over Greeley by over twenty-two thousand majority.

ITCHING ECZEMA IS A CONSTANT BLOOD CRY

The Blood Reaches Every Part of the Body Every Twelve Seconds.

There are approximately 70,000,000 pores or openings in the skin of a human body. These connect with the blood channels by means of little canals. These canals are sometimes filled with poisons, and thus the skin scales and blisters, becomes red and raw and the skin of man is like so much tissue fire. Salves and lotions, plasters, etc., do not reach the source of the trouble. To make the blood pure is the only sensible and scientific method of relief. To make the blood pure you must assist nature in the way she wants to be helped. S. S. S. is the greatest blood purifier because it is a natural one. There is not a mineral of any sort in it. It is purely vegetable in every essence. The blood welcomes S. S. S., and it quickly reaches the seat of the trouble. So great is the fame of this blood remedy that many substitutes trail along in various sections of the country. They all, sooner or later, die a natural death. S. S. S. builds up weak and acid blood, gives prompt relief to almost every case of eczema, winter tetter and other troublesome skin maladies. You owe yourself the duty of trying a bottle of S. S. S. Take no substitute. Write for our free book on skin diseases. Confidential letters replied to by our Medical expert if you will write Swift Specific Company, Department 33, Atlanta, Georgia.

STATE UTILITY BODIES TO HAVE "LOOKOUT BUREAU"

Commissioners Fear Interstate Board
May Appraise Railroads at Condemnation Values.

By United Press.
Washington, Feb. 11.—State public utilities commissions are going to establish a Lookout Bureau at Washington to keep close watch on developments in the valuations placed on railroads by the Interstate Commerce commission.

Commissioners of State Public Service commissions in attendance at the Interstate Commerce Commission hearing the sponsors for the Lookout Bureau. After presenting their arguments to the Commission as to the method of conducting valuation proceedings, the Commissioners expressed fear that methods unfavorable to them will be used.

One fear of the state commissioners is that the real estate of railroads, terminals and rights of way, will be appraised at condemnation value. This would make a difference of $8,000,000 over the valuation as made by State Commissions.

Some of the Commissioners in attendance at the valuation hearings express fear that the Interstate Commission is hazy on the subject of valuation. Only two members, they allege, have had experience in valuation cases. They are Mr. Meyer and Mr. Daniels; and Daniels, the Commissioners say, has had experience mostly with public utilities rather than railroads.

If the high valuation that would be made by following the carriers' theories is adopted by the Interstate Commission, the state officials say government ownership would be the only thing and the most economic thing to resort to then. Appeal has been made to certain Senators by Commissioners. Senator Cummins was called into conference and asked to lead a possible fight.

Charles A. Prouty, former member of the Interstate Commission, is head of the valuation division which prepared the data for the Commission to inaugurate its hearings upon. If the State Commissioners do not have their way in determining methods of valuing, they threaten to seek abolition of the valuation division or to ask that its appropriation be cut off.

If the valuation is made the railroads' way, allowing market or condemnation value, the carriers naturally would be given credit for higher assets than under the original cost or physical valuation method of the state bodies. In the instance of terminal and right-of-way property there would be a large appreciation in values since the land was acquired.

The state commissioners say that little attention has been paid by the Interstate Commission to the original cost side of the proposition because of the difficulty of determining original costs or original values. Several state commissions have given much consideration to the original cost question.

With the raising of funds for the establishment of their Lookout Bureau the state commissioners will inaugurate a fight to have the valuation made according to their views.

DRASTIC PROHIBITION
BILL BEFORE CONGRESS

District of Columbia Would be Under Iron Bound, Steel Riveted Regulations.

By United Press.
Washington, February 11.—The Washington man who keeps bay rum for his hair and the housewife who puts vanilla in the angel cake are both likely to be visited by the Metropolitan police if Senator Sheppard's prohibition bill for the District of Columbia becomes a law.

The bill now before the senate is regarded by dry authorities as the most thorough, comprehensive, iron bound, steel riveted lid ever devised. The residents of the District have no vote or say as to whether they wish to venture upon so complete a drought. It's all up to Congress. The bill not only prohibits the manufacture, sale or giving away of liquor, but it provides that the mere possession of liquor shall be deemed sufficient evidence to convict a person of selling it.

Search of any premises may be made upon an informal complaint. Discovery of liquor on the premises will void the lease and give the owner the right to eject the occupant. Common carriers are prohibited from bringing alcoholic beverages into the district. Any scheme or device to evade the law shall be regarded the same as the sale of liquor. The keeper of liquor may be restrained as a common nuisance, according to the proposed regulation.

Five wholesale druggists only are to be allowed to sell wood, grain or denatured alcohol. Anyone buying it must make an affidavit that he is twenty-one, not of intemperate habits and not addicted to the use of narcotic drugs.

To obtain wine for sacramental purposes priests and ministers are required to make application to the District Commissioners, specifying for what sacramental purposes the wine is necessary, and how long the quantity applied for will last.

The commissioners, before granting a permit, which will cost 25 cents, must satisfy themselves that the facts are correct. Such wine will then be allowed to be imported, but must be delivered at the church between 6 in the morning and 5 in the evening.

The sale of any liquor containing more than one-half of one per cent. of alcohol is forbidden and subject to all the other restrictions of the bill. This is understood to include perfumery, flavoring extracts, proprietary medicines, prescriptions and similar preparations containing more than this amount of alcohol.

MUTT AND JEFF PLEASE
AUDIENCE AT MAJESTIC

Bud Fisher's Characters Supported by Chorus Stage Performance of College Days.

Mutt and Jeff, unique characters in Bud Fisher's cartoons, were the central figures in a musical comedy, "Mutt and Jeff in College," which was staged at the Majestic theater last night. The antics of the couple never fail to please the audience. They were supported by a good chorus and the lyrics were a feature of the evening's performance. Despite the fact that Mutt and Jeff have been in musical comedy here twice before the performance pleased the audience which packed the house. "Shorty" DeWitt as Jeff and Ed West as Mutt were not what might be termed "professional college boys" and throughout the performance kept the audience wondering what would come next. The Company went to Greensburg today.

Miss Lillian Ackerman returned to her home in Logosotee this morning after a visit here with her aunt, Mrs. Mary Cassin.

THOMAS A. EDISON.

Thomas A. Edison, the world's greatest investor, is today celebrating his sixty-ninth birthday anniversary. In recognition of his great services in the field of science many tributes were paid to him, he received hundreds of congratulatory messages and in many places public meetings in his honor were held.

Mr. Edison's career is remarkable. He was born in Milan, O., February 11, 1847. His first work was as a newsboy. In early boyhood he showed unusual ability in working with mechanical appliances. His success, however, is due largely to his ambition of doing everything he undertook a little better than anyone else. A story is told that after he was placed in charge of a telegraph office while he was yet a boy, some of the older telegraphers tried to excite the green operator by speedy transmission. But he was already able to "receive" as fast as any operator would "send." On one occasion the best operator on the system did his utmost to make Edison "break." The boy operator realized what was being attempted. Finally he did "break" but only long enough to tell the operator to "please speed up a little as too much time was wasted in waiting." That was sufficient to convince his fellow operators that he was an A-1 employee.

This story served to illustrate Edison's standard in everything he does. Throughout life he has advocated hard work and perseverance as the best methods of attaining success. His first invention was sold for $40,000. This money provided him with sufficient capital to continue his experiments along other lines. Edison has given the world more conveniences than any other one inventor. To him are credited a long list of achievements which are so well known throughout the world. In fact in the office, the home and on the street one sees or handles devices which were created and developed by the Modern Wizard.

It is well that such men as Edison be duly honored during their lifetime. The world has many things for which Edison should be thanked and it is indeed proper that he should receive the praise now as such credit is doubtless an encouragement to the accomplishment of even greater things. The world needs Edison. The United States needs him. And it is the earnest prayer of American people that his life may be preserved so he may continue his remarkable labors.

Whatever may be said concerning Secretary Garrison's resignation it is generally conceded that he was an official of ability, firmness and thoroughness. Little criticism has been made of him up to the time of the proposal of the continental army plan. There are many informed army men who approve of this. President Wilson unfortunately has had much trouble with his cabinet. The resignation of Garrison, it is stated, is due entirely to a difference of opinion. He desires to see his continental army plan put in operation. To this the administration objects at least without some alterations. It is to be regretted that he has seen fit to take this action at this particular time when every move of the United States is being watched by foreign powers and might easily be misinterpreted.

MAY BREAK GREAT ESTATES.

The British Government May Adopt Scheme of Land Purchase.

One of the results of the war, according to reliable information, will be the adoption by the government of a big scheme of land purchase for England such as has been so successful in Ireland.

Confronted with the twofold problem of providing employment for discharged soldiers both during and after the war and the desirability of increasing home grown food supplies, the home office, the board of trade and the board of agriculture entered into consultation with the war office and the admiralty, and the outcome was the appointment by the board of agriculture of a special committee presided over by Sir Harry C. W. Verney.

The report of the committee is said to recommend extensive state acquisitions of land by compulsory purchase for the establishment on a large scale of colonies of small holders and the development of co-operative buying and marketing and of agricultural credit banks, together with a provision for a large state grant to put the proposals into operation.

DID ROOSTER WALK 88 MILES?

Lost in New York, He Turns Up in Port Jervis With Swollen Feet.

Edward and Albert Monroe, who have a large poultry farm near Port Jervis, N. Y., recently exhibited some Plymouth Rock fowl at the poultry show in Madison Square Garden, New York city, where one of the roosters won first prize.

When the birds were crated and ready to be expressed back to Port Jervis the prize rooster, valued at $250, escaped and for four weeks was lost. The other morning when the Monroe brothers went out to feed their feathered stock they were amazed to find the missing prize winner in the yard. His feet were swollen and calloused, and he was weak from exposure and lack of food. But he crowed lustily.

SAYS SHE FEELS LIKE NEW WOMAN

Mrs. Martha Brown, of Kokomo, Praises Tanlac for Her Improvement.

Kokomo, Ind., February 10, 1916—Mrs. Martha Brown, wife of James Brown, a well known Kokomo citizen, is one of the thousands of Indiana people who have been benefited by Tanlac, the Master Medicine. She recently said:

"I want to tell you of the wonderful relief Tanlac has given me. I was sick for a long time with stomach trouble, catarrh and rheumatism. My digestion was poor, and I had intense pains in my stomach. I also often had pains around my heart, and suffered with a shortness of breath. Because of an extremely nervous condition I hardly could sleep and, in fact, was all run down.

"I now have finished my second bottle of Tanlac and feel like a different woman. My appetite is better, I sleep soundly now, and have been relieved of rheumatism, which pained me terribly before I began taking Tanlac. I cannot recommend Tanlac too highly."

Thousands of Indiana people are taking Tanlac with most beneficial results. Tanlac is excellent for stomach, liver and kidney trouble, rheumatism, sleeplessness, nervousness, loss of appetite and is a general tonic for weak, run down people.

Tanlac is sold exclusively in Seymour at Carter's Drug Store. Advertisement.

650,000 ACRES FOR CAMPERS AVAILABLE IN NEW ENGLAND

Government Will Lease Five Acre Tracts at $5 Per Year.

There has been widespread interest in New England states in the decision of the United States forestry bureau to open to summer campers and vacationists 650,000 acres of public lands in the White mountains of New Hampshire, and many have taken it for granted that the terms offered by the government, $5 per annum for tracts of five acres for each person, the leases to run for thirty years, will be taken advantage of by thousands of persons next summer.

But there are some aspects of the offer that are likely to make it less attractive on closer investigation. The rate specified is less nominal than would appear at first sight, for whereas $5 a year for five acres is cheap enough and a thirty year lease would cost only $150, it must be considered that there are in New Hampshire, Maine, Vermont and Massachusetts thousands of acres of land suitable for camping sites that may be purchased outright for $5 per acre, so that for a total outlay of $150 one may obtain not five, but thirty acres of very desirable land.

The waste lands in Massachusetts that may be obtained for next to nothing run into the thousands of acres, and inquiry at the state forestry commission shows that any quantity of such land can be purchased on lakes where the fishing and boating are excellent and in beautiful scenic surroundings. The state is buying up much of this land at an average price under $5 an acre and some of it on Cape Cod as low as 25 cents an acre, and what the state can do individuals may do if they possess the initiative.

Moreover, there is a law in Massachusetts which offers an even more attractive proposition than that presented by the thirty year leases in the White mountains. Waste land purchased by individuals under this law will be planted in white pine or other valuable trees and cared for by the state by scientific forestry methods at a trifling expense to the owner, the only requirements being a form of transfer back to the state for its protection in the event of default.

Some long headed persons are taking advantage of this law, and sportsmen's clubs are beginning to acquire considerable areas in this way, but the great mass of the people are not availing themselves of it, and most of them probably do not know that such a law is on the statute books. This act offers not only an opportunity to acquire a pleasant summer camp, but a permanent investment in growing timber.

NEW ANTHEM FOR NATION IS PROPOSED IN HOUSE BILL

First Since Forty-sixth Congress. $2,500 Prize Offered by Elks.

A fine, stirring and high sounding anthem has been introduced into the house by Representative Dyer of St. Louis, who has asked that congress adopt the resolution containing the verses as a national hymn. The introduction of this poetry as a joint resolution, according to Joel Grayson, the walking encyclopedia of the house document room, is the first since Representative S. W. Downey of Wyoming started the Forty-sixth congress with a 200 page epic.

Representative Dyer's proposed anthem is the effort of Henry McEuen Jones of St. Louis to win the $2,500 prize offered by the Elks for a national anthem that congress will accept. The last verse of the resolution reads:

Give us peace by upright arbitration,
No death dealing shot to be hurled,
But if forced into war just remember
That Old Glory will never be furled.
For our union's cemented forever.
We have honored the blue and the gray,
Then we'll righteously follow Old Glory
With a power no nation can stay.

NEWSY PARAGRAPHS

A daughter was born February 9, to Mr. and Mrs. Van Dowell.

Miss Effie Smith, who has been in poor health for some time, is seriously ill.

David Emly, who has been living at Letts for the past four years, came to his brother's, Dan Emly, near Reddington and will spend the next few months with him.

Mr. N. Kaufman will leave Saturday evening for New York to complete the spring purchases for the Gold Mine department store and to look after special purchases for some of his customers.

The Crothersville high school team, accompanied by a crowd of rooters, will come this evening for their game with the locals at the high school gymnasium. The game will start at 8 o'clock, and as the visitors have been putting up a fast game, an interesting contest is anticipated.

The ladies of the First M. E. church will give their annual Washington Birthday supper at the church
February 22. This is the third supper that has been given. The tickets are being sold by the members of the choir and it is expected that a large number will be served.

Mrs. C. H. Wiethoff has received word that the condition of her mother, Mrs. John Rothrock, who recently underwent an operation at Rochester, Minn., is very satisfactory. Mr.
Rothrock, who is an engineer of the Southeastern Line, will remain in Rochester until Mrs. Rothrock can be removed home.

Rev. Franklin P. Smith, of Madison, will preach here again Sunday at the Christian church. Mr. Smith was here two weeks ago and the congregation were so well pleased with his work, that they asked for a return engagement at this time. Mr. Smith is a deep thinker and a strong man in the pulpit and the members are urged to hear him Sunday.

At the Lutheran club tonight the L. S. A. S. team will play the Scotts-burg Independents. The visitors' team is made up of former high school and college players and is said to be fast.
The following players will be used by the local team: Breitfield and Hoef-erkamp, guards, Breitfield, center and Breitfield and Mellenkamp, forwards.
The game will be called at 8:15 o'clock.

Important Business.

The entire board and trustees and also the Ladies' Aid, Wesley Circle, all societies and members of the M.
E. church are urged to be present at a meeting tonight, 7:30 p. m.
sharp at the church. Matters of importance to discuss.

What can we do but wait?
We have welcomed Teuton and Slav and

In at our friendly gate.

Danebrog, tricolor, union jack,
Eagle and crescent unfurled
Rally their kin to the tap of the drum—
But we are the kin of the world.

What can we do when the world is at Refrain from love or hate.

Stay our hand or give tongue to our grief—
There is nothing to do but wait.

Peace is our portion, bitter with herbs;
Little our talk is worth
When we have no power to be heard by our kin—
And we are kin to the earth.

Cleveland's Inexpensive Police Force.
Cleveland has one policeman for every 831 inhabitants. New York has one for each 495 inhabitants, and Chi-

Louis has one policeman for every 379 of its population. These facts will be contained in a report soon to be issued by Secretary W. W. Norris of the po-

ATTACKS GROW IN INTENSITY

Germans Continue With Violent Energy

RUSSIANS ON AGGRESSIVE

Teutons on West Front Keep Up Continuous Offensive Against French—Capture Trench and Then Are Dislodged—Explode Mine.

London, Feb. 11.—The fighting in the Vimy sector, north of Arras, against which the Germans have been launching violent attacks for some days, continues with little decrease in intensity. The Germans captured a section of French communicating trenches west of La Folie, but were dislodged by a counter attack. At sundown the Germans again attacked, this time directing their assault against the Neuville Lo Folie road. They were repulsed on the greater part of the front attacked, but recovered a mine crater which they had previously lost.

Hand grenade fighting continued in the same group of trenches west of La Folie, the French pushing their counter attacks with success and making some progress. The Germans made two assaults west of Hill 140, northwest of Vimy, but failed to gain. On the Neuville-St. Vaast-Thelus road the Germans exploded a mine, but the French anticipated them and occupied the crater.

Second only in interest to the operations in Artois is the combat south of the Somme. Here the French gained a foothold in the first line of German trenches to the north of Becquin court and repulsed a German attempt to drive them out.

Two large shells were thrown in the direction of Belfort by the German long range gun or guns, which have been bombarding the French fortress for the past few days. The location of the German battery doing the firing was reported to the French and immediately after the two German shells were fired, the French long range guns took up the bombardment of the German emplacement.

Some movement of moment may be developing at the northern end of the Russian line, where the artillery play is reported as heavy and continuous, particularly in the neighborhood of Dvinsk. The Russians profess confidence in the security of their line there, despite German heavy guns. In Galicia they are on the aggressive, and at one point report crossing the Dniester river.

Signs that a military operation of importance may be impending in the Balkans are seen in the Bulgarian government organ at Sofia, which, in a leading article, asserts the right of Bulgaria to invade Greece for an attack on the French and British there. It declares that Bulgaria can not permit these foes to remain near her borders and that they must be driven out.

Recent reports from the Balkans regarding the intentions of the Teutonic allies as to a move from southern Serbia and Bulgaria on the entente forces at Salonica, such as the Sofia announcement would seem to indicate, have been contradictory. Dispatches announcing a notable concentration of troops and heavy artillery along the Greek border, however, have been frequent.

GIRL FOUND DEAD IN WOODS

No Wounds Apparent and No Signs of a Scuffle.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—The body of Marian Lambert, a seventeen-year-old schoolgirl, was found in a patch of woods, in Lake Forest, a suburb. Beside the half-frozen body were the girl's school books. No wounds were apparent and there was no evidence of a struggle.

The girl's father, Frank Lambert, caretaker of the country home of Jonas Kuppenheimer, south of Lake Forest, found the body after several hours' search.

The girl attended the Deerfield township high school, but was not at her classes yesterday. Several of her schoolmates saw her walk over to the woods in the morning.

DAY IN CONGRESS

Senate went into executive session to consider Colombian and Nicaraguan treaties. Senate judiciary subcommittee continued hearings on Brandeis appointment to the supreme court.

Democratic members of the ways and means committee met to consider sugar schedule. Secretary McAdoo and Secretary Redfield appeared before the house merchant marine committee for shipping bill.

House labor committee considered legislation to establish employment bureau. House military and naval affairs committee continued preparedness hearings.

REFUSE OPEN DISCUSSION

Senate Turns Down Public Session During Debate.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Nineteen senators voted to open the doors and discuss in the open senate the Nicaraguan treaty. The motion to have the debate proceed in open session was made by Senator Borah of Idaho. It was lost by a negative vote of 42.

It is expected that the treaty will be ratified. The senate spent the entire day behind closed doors, discussing the motion of Senator Borah to open the doors. Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee, was the principal speaker. He appealed to senators in a speech of nearly two hours to preserve the secrecy of the senate in debating diplomatic matters.

The discussion and the motion that was lost did not relate to the Colombian treaty. That will come up later and the same effort to let the public know the facts will be made.

DEFENSE DISCLOSED IN HOPE MURDER CASE

Wife Declares Beating Was Given Daughter.

Princeton, Ind., Feb. 11.—That the assault witnessed by Samuel Crow from the window of his home a few feet away was upon Maybell Hope, a daughter of Bert Hope by a former marriage, and not upon his aged mother, Susan Fleming, whom he is charged with murdering, was forecast as the chief line of defense in the murder case, which was resumed here. An adjournment of three weeks had been taken following the discovery that the defendant had smallpox.

In cross-examination of the wife of the defendant the defense brought out that in a conversation immediately following the assault, which was not witnessed by Mrs. Hope, Maybell told her that she had just received a whipping from her father.

The girl left the state on the day of the assault and has remained away. Samuel Crow, who is the chief witness for the state, has testified that he saw Hope beating a woman inside his home and the defense is expected to produce other testimony to show that it was Hope's daughter.

The testimony of the wife was completed at noon and the state followed with evidence to show the defendant had refused to permit his mother to leave his home and had appropriated her pension check. An attempt to introduce testimony showing the defendant had tried to commit suicide following his arrest was not permitted by the court. A dying statement made to Mrs. Hope by Mrs. Fleming, in which she is said to have exonerated her son, was not permitted to go into the evidence.

New York Dries Make Gains

New York, Feb. 11.—Large gains for the "drys" are shown, it is claimed by the Anti-Saloon league of New York, in the "wet" and "dry" map just issued by the league. ## GARRISON QUILTS CABINET POST Differences Over Preparedness Is Reason.

PHILIPPINE BILL A FACTOR

Henry Breckenridge, Assistant Secretary, Follows His Chief, Giving as Reason He Endorses Policies of Garrison—Action a Surprise.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Lindley M. Garrison of New Jersey, secretary of war, has resigned from the Wilson cabinet. The resignation has been accepted.

Differences between the president and the secretary of war over the question of preparedness and the Philippine independence legislation were responsible for the break.

At the same time that he accepted the Garrison resignation, the president received and accepted the resignation of Henry Breckenridge, Kentucky, assistant secretary of war. Mr. Breckenridge gave as his reason for retiring the fact that he indorses absolutely the position assumed by Mr. Garrison and like the latter, regarded the differences as being irresolvable.

Action by the president in practically withdrawing administration support from the Garrison continental army plan and manifesting a willingness to treat with its opponents on the basis of a proposal to increase the national guard at the expense of the proposed continental army, is understood to have precipitated the break.

Although it has been rumored for some time that Secretary Garrison felt that the president was not giving his army preparedness program the support to which it was entitled, news of the resignation struck official Washington like a thunderbolt.

So far as is known the president has not decided upon the successors to Secretary Garrison and Assistant Secretary Breckenridge.

By the advocates of national defense and preparedness the Garrison resignation is regarded as the severest blow that could be struck. Secretary Garrison was regarded by them as the most forceful advocate of national defense. From the time he entered the cabinet and became acquainted with the weaknesses of the present army system, he has been a consistent champion of a bigger military establishment and adequate reserve under federal control.

In White House circles it was insisted that the president had not abandoned the continental army plan. Ranking Republican members of the house committee on military affairs, who were called into consultation with the president, however, left the White House firm in the impression that, while the president believed there was strong merit in the Garrison plan, he was not wedded to it to the extent of actively opposing any compromise which would eliminate the continental force.

Reports of the resignation were circulated after the secretary had announced that he would not deliver an address on national defense before the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, as had been expected. Immediately afterward he and Mrs. Garrison left for New York, and it was said at the war department that it would be for an indefinite stay.

Secretary Garrison has been a leading figure in President Wilson's official family ever since the administration began. To his urging has been ascribed in part Mr. Wilson's determination to carry to the country his plea for adequate national defense.

WILSON MAY NAME PINDELL

Reported Illinois Man Is to Succeed Lindley M. Garrison.

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 11.—Henry M. Pindell, publisher of the Peoria Journal, is slated to succeed Lindley M. Garrison as secretary of war, according to information given out here.

Mr. Pindell has been called to Washington and will leave here Saturday. He has been instructed to be in Washington on Tuesday.

Mr. Pindell refused to either confirm or deny the report that he was to become a member of President Wilson's cabinet.

"I have nothing to say," was Mr. Pindell's reply to numerous questions. The probable selection of Mr. Pindell, it is said, is due to the fact that the president is desirous of recognizing Illinois and Mr. Pindell, in a substantial way before the close of his term of office.

THREE SHOT ON TRAIN

Man Then Turns Gun on Himself—Is Overpowered.

Brownsville, Pa., Feb. 11.—In a Pennsylvania railway coach, crowded with state normal pupils, Edward Ryan of South Brownsville, shot his wife, his mother-in-law, and brother-in-law and then attempted to end his own life.

While a score or more girls were in a panic, trainmen overpowered Ryan and held him captive until the train reached West Brownsville, where he was turned over to the police.

The victims of the shooting were: Mrs. Lulu Ryan, twenty-four; Mrs. Jane Shaneyfelt, sixty, mother of Mrs. Ryan, and John Shaneyfelt, twenty-five, son of Mrs. Shaneyfelt. The latter and Mrs. Ryan were seriously wounded. Ryan and his wife separated several weeks ago, she leaving him and going to her mother's home at Fairchance.

DEAF MUTE TELLS STORY OF TRAGEDY

Another Deaf Mute Acts as Interpreter In Case.

Independence, Ky., Feb. 11.—Telling his story as best he could by signs, Harry England, a deaf mute, conveyed to another deaf mute the information that Mr. and Mrs. Edward Sagers were murdered at their home near here by a man with a mustache and that this man had thrown rocks at England before escaping toward the railroad tracks. The bodies of the man and woman were found with bullet holes through their heads several days ago.

Immediately following the rather disjointed story of England the coroner's jury rendered a verdict that the Sagers were killed "by a person unknown to the jury."

England can not read, write or converse in the usual way of deaf mutes, but an interpreter, a deaf mute himself, managed to get a statement from him by what is known among mutes as "natural signs."

The authorities doubt whether anything clearer than the deaf mute's testimony can be obtained from England owing to the peculiar difficulties in trying to make him understand what he tries to convey to them. England is believed to have been the only witness to the murder.

Tooth Loose?

Watch out for Pyorrhea!

When you find a tooth that gives back and forth, even just a little, see your dentist at once.

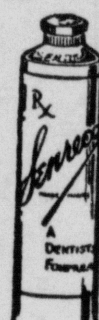

He will find conditions which you might overlook. He will find a gum recession, even though slight, where the gums have pulled away from the teeth. And he will tell you that you have the dread disease pyorrhea.

From pyorrhea come by far the greater part of all tooth troubles. Unless treated and checked, it will result not only in the shrinking and malformation of your gums and of the bony structure into which your teeth are set, but in the loss of the teeth themselves.

A specific for pyorrhea has been discovered recently by dental science, and is now offered for daily treatment in Senreco Tooth Paste. Senreco combats the germ of the disease. Its regular use insures your teeth against the attack or further progress of pyorrhea.

But Senreco does more. It cleanses the teeth delightfully. It gives them a whiteness distinctive of Senreco alone. Its flavor is entirely pleasing, and it leaves in the mouth a wonderful sense of coolness and wholesomeness.

Start the Senreco treatment before pyorrhea grips you for good. Details in folder with every tube. A two-ounce tube for 25c is sufficient for 6 weeks' daily treatment. Get Senreco of your druggist today, or send 4c in stamps or coin for sample tube and folder. Address The Senreco Remedies Company 503 Union Central Building, Cincinnati, Ohio.

GIVE WARNING TO NEUTRALS

Teuton Submarines to Attack Armed Merchantmen.

TIME SET IS MARCH 1

Berlin and Vienna Notify United States That Their Subsea Boats Will Attack Without Warning All Armed Merchantmen—Warn Other Ships.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Germany and Austria have informally advised the United States government that beginning March 1 they will launch a vigorous submarine campaign against enemy merchant shipping and that they propose to attack armed ships of this character without warning.

Apprehensive of the consequence of the decision the United States has forwarded the information to its embassies at the capitals of the entente powers, to be used by them, it is believed, in an effort to get favorable consideration for the proposals recently put forth by the German government looking to an agreement for the general disarmament of merchant vessels.

Although no official replies have been received to these proposals, the United States already has been given to understand by the British ambassador here that they cannot be agreed to. In consequence of this the state department is seriously considering the advisability of reversing its position taken earlier in the war that armed merchantships cannot be attacked without warning, and issuing a general notice to American travelers to keep off armed liners.

Both Germany and Austria, through their embassies here, have informed Secretary of State Lansing that in view of the important development of the submarine as an instrument of marine warfare, and its vulnerability, the central powers have taken the position that armed merchant vessels cannot be regarded except as auxiliary warships.

Officials of the state department are not inclined to believe that the new development will interfere with the final settlement of the Lusitania controversy, which did not involve in the demands made by the United States any stipulation of protection for armed merchant ships. Originally Germany had attempted justification of the Lusitania attack on the ground that she carried mounted guns, but when it was shown that she did not, her contention was dropped.

Notice of the intentions of the Teutonic powers was first given definitely to Mr. Lansing when Count von Bernstorff presented the Berlin memorandum, which substantially agreed to give the satisfaction demanded in the Lusitania case. On that occasion, it was learned, the ambassador presented another memorandum from his government, cautioning the United States that the settlement of the Lusitania case could not be accepted in any way as pledging Germany not to attack armed merchantmen without warning, and advising the secretary that a formal notification of Germany's intentions could be expected before March 1, after which date German submarines would attack and aim to sink all armed enemy ships on sight.

Austria's notification was presented to the secretary by Baron Zwiadinek, charge of the Austrian embassy.

Sentenced to Prison For Life.

Danville, Ill., Feb. 11.—Pleasant Fielder, found guilty in the circuit court here of attacking his stepdaughter, was sentenced to Chester prison for life by Judge Brewer. The verdict is the heaviest ever given in this county for any crime other than murder.

A NOVEL

By GEORGE AGNEW CHAMBERLAIN

Chapter X

Gerry Lansing was sitting alone in the shade of a bush, his knees gathered in his arms and his head bowed down. Great quivering sighs that were almost sobs were shaking his strong body. In one terrific swirl life had wrenched him from the moorings of generations, tossed him high and dropped him, broken. Between the moment when he had plunged from the sandspit and the moment when he and the girl had stood on the river bank and laughed together to see the canoe, worked adrift by the eddy, swirl out into the river and away, eons had passed. In that laughing moment he had stood primeval man in a primeval world. With the drops of water from the river he had flicked off the bonds it had taken centuries to forge. And now his truant conscience returned to stand dismayed.

The girl, dressed in a homespun cotton robe belted at the waist, came back down a half-hidden path, shyly at first and then with awe to see him weeping. She tossed him a cotton jumper and trousers and then drew back and waited for him in the path. He rose slowly to his feet, dressed and followed the girl.

She led him along the path through the brush and out into a little valley made up of abandoned cane and rice bottoms. In the center was a slight elevation, too low to be called a hill, and on it was an old plantation house, white stucco once, now sadly weather-streaked, its tiles green-black with the moss of years.

She pointed to the house and then to herself and smiled. He understood the pantomime and nodded. When they reached the house a withered and wrinkled little woman came out to the arched veranda to meet them. She looked Gerry over shrewdly and then held out her hand. He shook it listlessly. They walked through a long dividing hall. On each side were large rooms, empty, save one where a big bed, a wash-stand, and an old bureau with mildewed glass, were grouped like an oasis in a desert. They reached the kitchen. It was evidently the living room of the house. A hammock cut off one corner. Chairs were drawn up to a rough, uncovered table. A stove was built into the masonry and a cavernous oven gaped from the massive wall.

At the stove was an old negress, making coffee with shaky deliberation. On the floor sat an old darky clad only from his waist down in such trousers as Gerry was wearing, except that they were soiled and tattered. He looked up and fastened his eyes on Gerry and then struggled to his feet. Dim recollections of some bygone white master brought a gleam into his bleary eyes. He raised his hand in the national gesture of child to parent, slave to master. "Blessing, master, blessing." Gerry had learned the meaning of the quaint custom. "God bless thee," he answered in badly jumbled Portuguese. The girl and the wrinkled woman looked at him, surprised, and then smiled at each other as women smile at the first steps of a child.

They made him sit down at the table and placed before him crisp rusks of manioc flour and steaming coffee whose splendid aroma triumphed over the sordidness of the scene and through the nostrils reached the palate with anticipatory touch. It was sweetened with dark, pungent sirup and was served black in a capacious bowl, as though one could not drink too deeply of the elixir of life.

Gerry ate ravenously and sipped the coffee, at first sparingly, then greedily. The old negress fluttered nervously about the stove, nursing its inadequate fire of charcoal. Her eyes were big with wonder at the capacity of the white master. The old negro had sunk back to his seat on the floor. The two white women stood and watched Gerry. The more he ate the more they urged.

Gerry set down the empty bowl with a sigh. The rusks had been delicious. Before the coffee the name of nectar dwindled to impotency. Its elixir rioted in his veins. At the sigh the girl had deftly rolled a cigarette in a bit of corn husk, scraped thin as paper. Now she slipped it into his fingers. The old negress picked up a live coal and, passing it from shaky hand to shaky hand, deposited it on his plate. Gerry lit the cigarette. With the first long contented whiff he smiled. The smile brought stinging recollection. With a frown he threw away the cigarette and rose from the table. "The brute is fed and laughs," he said aloud and strode from the room. The girl and the little wrinkled woman looked at each other in dismay. They seemed to sense the unintelligible words. The old darky crawled across the floor and possessed himself of the cigarette.

Gerry went to seat himself on the steps of the veranda. Before him stretched the fallow valley, beyond it gleamed the black line of the rushing river. To the right were the ruins of a sugar mill and stables. To the left the debris that once had been slaves' quarters. The fields still bore the hummocks, in rough alignment, that told the story of past years fruitful in cane. All was waste, all was ruin.

The girl slipped to a seat beside him. She rolled a fresh cigarette and then shyly laid a small brown hand on his arm. Gerry looked at her. Her big brown eyes were sorrowful and pleading. She held out the cigarette with a little shrug that deprecated the smallness of the offering.

Gerry felt a twinge of remorse. He patted the hand that lay on his arm, smiled, and took the cigarette. The girl's face lit up. She called and again the negress brought fire. This time Gerry smoked gravely. The girl sat on beside him. Her hand lay in his.

So they sat until the sun passed the zenith and, slipping over the eaves, fell like fire on their bare feet. Gerry stood up, pointed to himself and then down the river to the town. The girl shook her head. She made him understand that he was cut off from the town by an impassable tributary to the great river—that he would have to make a long detour inland. Then she swept her hand from the sun to the horizon to show him that the day was too far gone for the journey.

He was not much concerned. An apathy seized him at the thought of going back. He felt as though shame had left some visible scar on his countenance that men must see and read. As he stood, thoughtful and detached, the girl grasped his arm with both her hands and drew his attention to her. Then she gave one sweep of her arm that embraced all the ruin of house and mill and fields. She pointed to herself. He understood: these things were hers. Then she folded her hands and with a gesture of surrender laid them in his.

It was eloquent. There was no mistaking her meaning. Gerry was touched. He held both her clasped hands in one of his and put his arm around her shoulders. She fixed her eyes on his face for the answer. Once more Gerry's eyes wandered over all that ruin. After all, he thought, why not? Why not bury his own ruin here in company? But she read no decision in his face though she watched it long. What she saw was debate and for the time it satisfied her.

Gerry all that afternoon was very silent and thoughtful—silent because there was no one he could talk to, thoughtful because the idea the girl had put into his head was taking shape, aided by a long chain of circumstances. He looked back over his covered trail. If he had been some shrewd fugitive from justice he could not have planned it better. His sudden flight without visiting his home, his failure to buy a ticket, the subordination of silence as to his presence or destination, all that had been wiped out by his cablegram to his mother. But then fate had stepped in again and once more blotted out the trail. Some genius had heard his wish. The old Gerry Lansing was dead. Even from himself the old Gerry Lansing had been torn away in a chariot of fire.

In the cool of the evening he looked about him. The tiny world into which he had fallen was penurious but self-contained. Such fabrics as there were, were homespun from the bolls of a scraggy patch of cotton bushes. A little oil in a clay dish with a twisted wick of cotton giving forth more smoke than light seemed to fix him in his setting of prehistoric man. The rice, gathered from an enduring bottom, formed with manioc, the backbone of the household's sustenance. From the outcrops of the abandoned cane fields, with the assistance of an antediluvian hand-mill and an equally antiquated iron pot, they made the black sirup that served for sugar. Salt, slightly alkaline, was plentiful. A few cows and their progeny lived in the open and lived well, for, even untitled, the lands of the valley were rich. An occasional member of the herd was carried off to market by the old darky.

Sunday School Lesson

February 13

Lesson VII.

First Quarter

HUMBLING AND EXALTED. Phil. 2:1-11

GOLDEN TEXT.—For ye know the grace of our Lord Jesus Christ, that, though he was rich, yet for your sakes he became poor, that ye through his poverty might become rich.—2 Cor. 8:9.

The topic of this lesson is "Humiliation and Exaltation," and the central person is, as in all the Bible, the Lord Jesus Christ, Creator, Redeemer, High Priest and coming King. From the day that Saul saw Him and heard Him on the way to Damascus he had no eyes nor ears nor heart for any one else, as is plainly seen in some of his words in this epistle: "To me to live is Christ." "Christ shall be magnified in my body, whether by life or by death." "I count all things loss for the excellency of the knowledge of Christ Jesus my Lord, * * * that I may know Him and the power of His resurrection" (chapter 1, 20, 21; iii, 8, 10). He never ceases to speak of the gospel or the good news concerning Jesus Christ (1, 5, 7, 12, 17, 27; ii, 22; iv, 3, 15), and he encourages all who believe the gospel by such assurances as that He who begins the work in them will not fail to finish it; that their names are in the Book of Life; that all their need here shall be supplied; that in the resurrection the mortal body shall be changed to an immortal body, like the resurrection body of the Lord Jesus, and that we should ever be looking for His return from heaven (Phil. 1, 6; iv, 3, 19; ii, 20, 21). As to the present daily life we must count suffering a privilege and not be discouraged even by sickness in His service, content under all circumstances and free from all anxiety, fully yielded to Him, that He may work in us both to will and to do of His good pleasure (chapter 1, 29; ii, 25-30; iv, 6, 7, 11; ii, 13).

In our lesson verses we are led to consider the comfort that there is for us in Christ by fellowship with Him in the power of the Spirit. In the present conflict with the world, the flesh and the devil the only way is to run with patience, looking unto Jesus, and consider Him who endured such contradiction of sinners against Himself for us, lest we be wearied (Heb. xii, 1-3). If we are in Christ His God and Father is our God and Father, and He is the Father of mercies and the God of all comfort, and though we may have tribulation we need not be troubled (I Cor. 1, 3, 4; John xiv, 27; xvi, 33; xx, 17). As we consider the meek and lowly One, who said "Take my yoke upon you and learn of me," we shall be ashamed of all strife or vainglory, for the servant of the Lord must not strive (Matt. xi, 29; II Tim. ii, 24; James iii, 14-16). How unseemly was the strife for greatness among the apostles on the last Passover night. Even Baruch, the scribe of Jeremiah, was told that he must not seek great things for himself (Luke xxii, 24).

Few seem to have attained to that fullness of grace, which enables them to rejoice in the welfare of another church or denomination as well as their own, because they have not seen that to gather from all the world the Church, the body of Christ, is far more important than the welfare of any particular denomination or church or society. If believers had more fully the mind of Christ they would never consider their own reputation or name, but would live only to magnify Him who so emptied Himself for us. He who had such glory with the Father before the world was as we cannot begin to imagine humbled Himself to Bethlehem, and Nazareth, and Gethsemane, and Golgotha, with all that each name suggests, that all who will acknowledge their guilt and receive Him as their Saviour may become children of God and joint heirs with Him and in due time share His kingdom and glory. To this end God hath raised Him from the dead and set Him at His own right hand, far above all power and might and dominion and every name that is named, not only in this world, but also in that which is to come, and hath put all things under His feet and gave Him to be head over all things to the Church which is His body (verses 9-11; Eph. i, 20, 23).

It is this body and bride, that other Eve for the last Adam, that is now being gathered from all the world in this age to reign with Him in the next age, when every knee shall bow to Him and every tongue confess that Jesus Christ is Lord to the glory of God the Father. This will be at the time of chapter iii, 21; Acts iii, 21; Rev. iii, 21, and the fitness for our taking part in it all is seen in Gen. iii, 21. He must reign till He hath put all enemies under His feet (I Cor. xv, 25), but He will not begin to reign till He has His Eve, His bride, His body, the Church, to reign with Him. We see not yet all things put under Him, but we see Jesus crowned with glory and honor, waiting for those other sons whom He is bringing to glory and fitting them for it by their present sufferings (Heb. ii, 8-11). Only as we by faith see and thus realize something of our heavenly calling and the glory that awaits us shall we be gladly willing to fill any place of lowly service now if only He can be magnified in us and use us to win others to Him and thus complete His body and bring the time of His marriage. The power of His resurrection and our fellowship with Him in it is the sustaining power in the fellowship of His sufferings (chapter iii, 10).

PREFER DEATH TO CAPTURE

German Submarine Commanders Shoot Crews to Prevent Capture.

New York, Feb. 11.—That German commanders of submarines which are captured by the British shoot the men of their own crews and then kill themselves rather than fall prisoners to the enemy, was the assertion made by Dr. M. C. Inglis of Montreal, who returned on the Cameronia from doing Red Cross work on the western front in France.

Dr. Inglis said that he saw the evidence of this with his own eyes in the case of one huge German undersea craft that was brought into Dover, and that he had heard the same thing from naval officers about other captured submarines. The physician stated that he was reliably informed by naval officers that the British had captured sixty to seventy of the German submersible craft since the beginning of the war.

ROBS TWENTY PASSENGERS

Lone Bandit Makes "Cleaning" in Union Pacific Sleeping Car.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Feb. 11.—A bandit held up and robbed twenty passengers in a sleeping car on an east-bound Union Pacific train between Green River and Rock Springs, Wyo., and escaped.

The bandit is supposed to have boarded the train at Green River. Pointing two pistols at a brakeman in the sleeping car the bandit forced him to pass around a hat in which the passengers were told to deposit money and other valuables. According to trainmen several shots were fired to intimidate the passengers.

Approximately $100 in money was taken from the passengers by the bandit. A purse containing $70 was returned to a woman passenger, the bandit-remarking he did not wish to rob women.

WILL HOLD THRIFT CONTEST

Oklahoma City Mayor Will Give Auto as Prize.

Oklahoma City, Okla., Feb. 11.—To stimulate thrift and industry among the 12,000 to 14,000 children under fifteen years of age in Oklahoma City, Mayor Ed Overholster has just announced he will present a prize of a new five-passenger automobile to the boy or girl under that age producing the greatest net profit this summer from gardening a single vacant city lot.

The commissioner of finance has offered to donate the city driver's license to the winner of the automobile.

The proceeds bought the very few contributions of civilization necessary to the upkeep of the lenten life.

Gerry decided. He looked at the girl and she ran to him. He put his arms around her and gazed with a sort of numb emotion into her great dark eyes. Those eyes were wells of simplicity, love, fidelity, but below all that there were depths unmeasured and unmeasuring that gave all and demanded all.

In the mind of the husband who believed himself deserted and betrayed there no longer existed any barrier between him and this woman who had come so strangely into his life. Marriage with her was no wrong to Alix. The last scruples of civilization and of law fell from him like a garment thrown aside and he became the husband of the girl who had so innocently wooed him.

Mass Meeting Here Sunday

Local Churches Help Laymen's Missionary Movement to be Held at Indianapolis

Sunday, February 13th, is the date of the mass meeting to be held here in connection with the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

There will be a special speaker at the meeting, from Indianapolis, who will explain the purpose of the Indianapolis convention, held on February 27, 28, 29 and March 1, which is part of the Laymen's Missionary Movement, and church workers are active to assure a large attendance at the meeting on Sunday.

The Laymen's Missionary Movement is nation wide. It appeals to every man, because it will widen his horizon, increase his knowledge, deepen his convictions, enlarge his sympathies, magnify his opportunities, enrich his spiritual life, give him a clearer vision, fill him with enthusiasm, make him sure of ultimate victory, show him that work must be done now, open to him channels of world service, fit him for larger efficiency in his local church and community.

Convention Particulars.

All sessions of the Indianapolis convention will be held in the First Baptist church. The convention will begin Sunday afternoon, February 27.

Sessions will be held Sunday afternoon, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday morning, afternoon and evening. A registration fee of $1.00 is required. This goes toward paying the expenses of the convention. No collection will be taken and no appeal made for money in the convention.

Admittance to all sessions will be by badge.

Registration accompanied by cash or check should be sent at once to convention headquarters, Y. M. C. A. building, Indianapolis, Ind., Frank B. Bachelor, Exec. Sec., on receipt of which delegates' badge will be mailed in due time.

OBJECT OF THE CAMPAIGN

To Enlist Men For World Wide Conquest in Name of Christ.

The ultimate object of the convention campaign of the Laymen's Missionary Movement which opens in Indianapolis on February 27 to March 1, 1916, is the church wide enlistment of men for world wide conquest in the name of Christ. The immediate urgent need for the campaign at this time is the failure of two of the three great Protestant powers of the day on whom the burden of missionary responsibility has hitherto rested.

Of the entire income provided by Protestant Christendom to finance the world missions of the church, about one-half has hitherto been provided outside of the United States, the bulk of this coming from Great Britain and a few millions from Germany. The fratricidal strife in which these two powers are at present engaged throws a larger share of responsibility upon the United States or America. To present this obligation and to enlist the abundantly competent manhood of the churches is this great and unprecedented world task will be the main object of this campaign.

In addition to this hundreds of thousands of people, harried by war, sick of the sight of blood, discouraged at the prospect of unbearable burdens imposed by war taxes, will seek the only possible refuge which will be in this country. The inflow of these multitudes with their racial suspicions and antipathies, intensified by the hate engendered through the present war, will tremendously complicate the task of the churches in assimilating these mutually hostile elements. This problem will constitute a task of national dimensions for the next ten years. To arouse the men of the churches to the proper discharge of this task will be one of the objects of the convention.

WOMEN TO PARTICIPATE

In Laymen's Missionary Movement Convention at Indianapolis.

An auxiliary meeting will be held for women in the Second Presbyterian church February 27 to March 1, 1916, Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons and evenings.

The direction of these meetings will be under the auspices of the Women's Missionary Social Union, the speakers being furnished by the Laymen's Missionary Movement.

A registration fee of twenty-five cents will be charged.

Personnel of the Speakers.

The personnel of the speakers is such as to guarantee the highest excellence. These are men not only eloquent in speech; and full of magnetism but each with a personality and practical experience that make his utterance of the greatest possible value. Some of the speakers:

Who Should Pray.

All who receive this call; individuals in private, families at the family altar, pastors in the pulpit, attendants at the prayer meetings of the church, and groups organized for this special purpose.

MR. AND MRS. N. C. RUCKER MARRIED HALF A CENTURY

Both Are Natives of Grassy Fork Township But Have Lived Here Seventeen Years.

Mr. and Mrs. N. C. Rucker, who have been residents of this city for seventeen years, today celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. They received informally this afternoon at their home on Indianapolis avenue and many of their friends called to extend congratulations.

The reception followed a family dinner at which thirty-one were served. The house was decorated in white and pink flowers and potted plants.

Mr. Rucker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Nathan Rucker and was born in Grassy Fork township seventy-two years ago. He is a veteran of the Civil War and having served three years in 39th Indiana regiment. Mrs. Rucker is four years his junior and is also a native of Grassy Fork township. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Wesley Hobson. Their marriage occurred February 11, 1866. After a short residence at Tampico they moved to Illinois and later returned to this county, residing at Tampico. Seventeen years ago they came to Seymour where Mr. Rucker was a veterinarian for a number of years. Recently he retired from active work. Mr. and Mrs. Rucker are the parents of thirteen children, ten of whom are living. Most of them spent the day with their parents. They also have nine grandchildren.

The out-of-town guests at the dinner and reception were: Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Rucker, of Terre Haute, Mrs. J. M. Stockell and daughter, Miss May, of Indianapolis, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Cozard, of Indianapolis, Mrs. H. D. Lloy, of Mooresville, Mr. and Mrs. Valla Bowman, of Jeffersonville, Mrs. Lillie Hustedt, of Jeffersonville, Philip Carlisle and daughter, Miss Hazel, of Little York, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Wilson, of Greensburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Martin Rucker, of Tampico.

TO VOTE ON LIQUOR ISSUE.

Three Hundred Illinois Towns to Settle Question at the Polls in April.

Some 300 cities and towns of Illinois will vote on the wet and dry question next April as the result of petitions filed both by the saloon and anti-saloon forces. In about one-third of the localities the wet faction is seeking to regain control of the districts, while in the remainder the dries are trying to drive out the saloons.

In the district surrounding Chicago most of the petitions were filed by the wets in an effort to recover ground lost in the last test, which, coming soon after women were given the ballot, resulted disastrously for the saloon forces. Among the cities are Elgin, Sterling, De Kalb, Rochelle, Batavia, Plainfield, Geneva, Plano, Yorkville, Hincley and Sycamore.

Apparently the wets have given up hope of regaining Rockford, the largest dry city in the state. No petition was filed there, despite the fact that the city for years has been one of the principal battlegrounds of the wet and dry forces. The wets also ignored a large number of smaller towns which were voted dry at the last election.

In addition to these larger cities, the anti-saloon forces filed petitions in nearly 200 towns in the western and central parts of the state.

The dries are counting to a great extent upon the increasing number of women who are going to the polls at every election.

If you have Republican Advertising on your mind, you're right.
